Debate Teams on 1400-Mile Tour

Trip Into Seven States Is Being Made—Eighteen Debates Are Scheduled.

A college debate team under the direction of Orville C. Miller, head of the department of Speech, left Saturday morning, February 13, for a debate tour into seven states.

The teams that were taken consisted of Marvin Shamberger and Henry Jerome Smith as the men's team, Miss Cecile Gist and Miss Ellnor Sewell were the members of the women's team that went on the trip.

The debate tour, according to Mr. Miller, is primarily an educational trip and most of the debates are non-decision contests. "The aim of educational debate," said Mr. Miller, "is not to decide but to grow." About fourteen hundred miles is covered by the itinerary mapped out by the coach.

The first debate was held Saturday afternoon with Nebraska Wesleyan University at Lincoln, Nebraska. The next stop is Creighton University in Omaha on the 14th. On the 15th of February the teams debate the University of South Dakota at Vermillion. February 16th finds them debating South Dakota State College at Brookings, S. D. On the afternoon of the 17th of February the debaters will meet Gustavus Adolphus College at St. Peter, Minn. On that same evening they debate Hamline University in St. Paul, Minnesota.

The next day the team will be guests of the Wisconsin State Teachers College, at La Crosse, Wisconsin. On the 19th of February they will debate the University of Dubuque, Dubuque, Iowa the following day at Carthage College, Carthage, Illinois.

The team will return home after that debate, arriving in Maryville on Sunday night, February 21. The total number of debates in the which the teams will be engaged will be eighteen. Mrs. O. C. Miller will accompany the coach and team to act as chaperon.

The debate season this year is one of the most ambitious that Mr. Miller has ever undertaken and he hopes to climax the season at the Phi Kappa Delta national convention at Tulsa, this Spring.

A. H. Cooper Talks to Men's Forum on Aims of Education

At the Men's Monday Forum luncheon yesterday noon, A. H. Cooper of the College Faculty, spoke on the subject "Changing Aims of Education."

Mr. Cooper showed the aims of education are continually changing in accord with the changes of complex civilization and the findings of research. He discussed a number of the aims of education as held by different peoples in the past and showed how the aims of education in this country have until recently been dominated largely by them.

Mr. Cooper said that today in many of the nations of the world the educational process is being influenced by the teachings of John Dewey, noted American educator who says that education should help people in the solution of the problems of life and that it is not merely for the purpose of amassing knowledge.

School Conference Will Be Held Here February 26

At a regional conference of city and county school superintendents, school board members and other educators, to be held at the College, February 26, the new school law and various other educational problems will be discussed.

This conference is one of eight being held in the state by Charles A. Lee, state superintendent of public schools and members of his staff and is arranged especially to help educators solve school problems in the nineteen counties in Northwest Missouri.

At the request of Mr. Lee, the Knights of the Hickory Stick organization of Northwest Missouri is sponsoring the one day conference, to which both men and women are invited. The Knights will sponsor a noon luncheon for those who attend the meeting. Reservations for plates for the luncheon must be in the hands of L. G. Somerville of Maryville, not later than Friday, February 19.

Holds Valentine Party

The Y. W. O. A. held its Valentine party at the Y. Hut, Saturday night, Feb. 13, from 7 to 10. The girls report a very enjoyable time. The entertainment consisted of games appropriate to Valentine day.

Freshmen Sponsor a Dance

The Freshmen class sponsored a dance in the West Library, Friday, Feb. 12. The dance was an all-school affair. Rusty Sellers orchestra played.

Are We Thinkers?

By
Wallace Culver

Luther Burbank once wrote: "If the money that the American people are wasting for tobacco were invested in homes, every man and woman could have a home, free of debt, before reaching the age of fifty."

This statement was written long before advertising had reached the fine psychological perfection which it has attained today. The money spent for tobacco at the present time would probably appall even a Burbank. There is not only a great waste of money in the purchase and consumption of tobacco, but there is also a great waste of bodily wellbeing and health. Practically every authority on the subject claims that the use of tobacco is injurious to an individual, especially a girl. Experiments have often been made showing that the soaking of a half dozen cigarettes papers in a bowl of milk would result in death for any cat that consumed the liquid. This is an astonishing but very enlightening experiment. Herbert Hoover has the following to say concerning cigarettes: "There is no agency in the world today that is so seriously affecting the health, education, efficiency and character of boys and girls as the cigarette habit, and yet very little attention is paid to it. Nearly every delinquent boy is a cigarette smoker, which certainly has much to do with it. Cigarettes are a source of crime. To neglect crime at its source is a short-sighted policy, unworthy of a nation of our intelligence." Leaving aside what the authorities may say about the matter, it is a fact that there are few individuals who are addicted to the tobacco habit that do not regret the formation of the habit.

The money that was spent for drink in 1913 would pay the expenses for four years of every city in the United States with a population of thirty thousand or more.

It is disheartening for one to think about the great amount of money that has been wasted and is being wasted to satisfy the cravings of the people for these two poisons mentioned above. Alcohol and nicotine are both poisons. Only one drop of pure nicotine is required to kill even the most healthy man. If this money that is being wasted was expended in activities beneficial to mankind, this world would cease to be a world—it would be a heaven.

Dean Pike Goes to Washington
Dean Sharley K. Pike of the College left yesterday for Washington, D. C. to attend the Conference of the National Association of Deans of Women. Miss Pike was appointed by the state president Miss Kathleen I. Gillard of Southeast Missouri S. T. C., to represent the Deans of Missouri at the conference in Washington.

Invited to Faculty Meeting

The faculty of the College has been invited to attend the meeting of the faculties of the Missouri State Teachers Colleges at Kirksville Teachers College, during Easter vacation, beginning March 25. The faculty of the Teachers College at Kirksville is entertaining the other faculties. The meeting of the teachers at one of the state colleges is an annual affair.

Bearcats Outclass Pittsburg Quintet

Largest Crowd Ever in Local Gym Sees Kansans Completely Routed.

Pittsburg has come and gone, and this year the tables were decidedly reversed. The Bearcats defeated the Gorillas last Tuesday night, 26 to 9.

The Pittsburg game, which had long been heralded as the feature game of the current season, and which was played before the largest audience ever assembled in the Maryville gymnasium was little short of a rout. While the Gorillas had an excellent record behind them, and in three years had not been defeated by any large margin, they were this time but a shell of the team that came to Maryville last year and ended the long Bearcat winning streak. Maryville scored first in the game immediately after the opening whistle to be followed by three points from the opponents which put Pittsburg in the lead temporarily. Things soon settled down, though, and the Maryville defense tightened, and the offense began to function, and from then on there was never any doubt as to the outcome. It is of interest that the Bearcats had possession of the ball far more than their share of the time, and that the Pittsburg offense, which is famous for its high scoring punch, was held to two lone field goals throughout the affair. H. Fischer was high point man of the game with seven points, and Jack McCracken, in the dual between Masters outscored his opponent, Ernie Schmidt 6 to 5.

The box score:
Maryville (26) Pittsburg (9)
Fischer, f. 2 3 3 Ratcliff, f. 1 0 2

Sam Evans Gives Talk on Life of Abraham Lincoln

Many of the words which fell from the lips and the pen of Abraham Lincoln, one of the greatest men which America has produced, were expressed in an excellent address by Sam Evans, a graduate of the College now prosecuting attorney for Daviess County, at the College assembly Wednesday morning.

This assembly program was arranged especially in honor of Abraham Lincoln whose birth anniversary is February 12. After announcements by President Lamkin and the presentation of gold football to the members of the championship Bearcat football team and the coaches, E. A. Davis and H. P. Iba, by Professor T. H. Cook, Mr. Evans addressed the students and others gathered for the assembly on the subject, "Abraham Lincoln."

Mr. Evans said that he had always been a great admirer of Lincoln and he quoted a poem and statements written by great men in honor of this great man who helped to keep his country united. He mentioned many humorous and interesting instances in the life of Lincoln and quoted from many of his public statements and addresses to show his enduring greatness.

Washington Bicentennial to Be Widely Observed

Both large and small communities will celebrate Washington's birthday. A bicentennial group has been named for Hungary; Alaskan people are planting trees in Washington's honor; Porto Rico school children study Washington; the Berlin Carl Schurz Association has requested that a street in Berlin be named for Washington.

The bar F. Ranch of Kirby Montana has made special arrangement for celebration.

The children of the State of Utah are contributing five cents each to be used in erecting a statue of Washington on the grounds of the State Capitol at Salt Lake City.

The Bicentennial postage stamps that were put on sale in January are in a stamp series that have twelve portraits of George Washington. They will be used all year.

The members of the Dramatic Club enjoyed a bit of Old Spain when the Spanish play, "A Sunny Morning," was presented at the meeting of the Club last Thursday. Miss Elizabeth Hindman directed the play which had the following cast:

Don Gonzalo—Wallace Culver.
Laura Lorena—Eliceta Bender.
Juanito—Dale Neely.
Petra—Maxine Wood.

The Dramatic Club program for February 18 will be presented by the College High School Dramatic Club. Everyone is invited.

Ted Shawn and Dancers Present Unique Program

A most unusual artistic and highly entertaining program was presented in the College auditorium last Wednesday evening by Ted Shawn and his company of dance artists.

The large crowd, which through hearty applause expressed appreciation for the skill of the performers, from the beginning to the end of the two hour program, seemed to appreciate Ted Shawn and his four dances based on American Folk Music, the Boston Fancy costume dance and the final number the Strauss Waltzes in which the entire company beautifully costumed had a part, as much if not more than any of the solos of group dances given.

Every number given certainly would have met the approval of the most severe critic of this art, and the lighting effects and costumes added charm to performance.

Favorable comments from those who enjoyed the program rival the excellent press comment found in papers throughout the world in appreciation of the skill of this great dancer, his company and their program.

Faculty Members Attend Meeting in Jefferson City

President Lamkin, Dr. Hake and Miss Anthony of the College were in Jefferson City, last Friday and Saturday attending a meeting of representatives of the various educational institutions in the state.

H. R. Dieterich and G. C. Schowengerdt of the College who were with the group mentioned above stopped in Columbia where Mr. Dieterich attended a meeting of the State Athletic Board of Control.

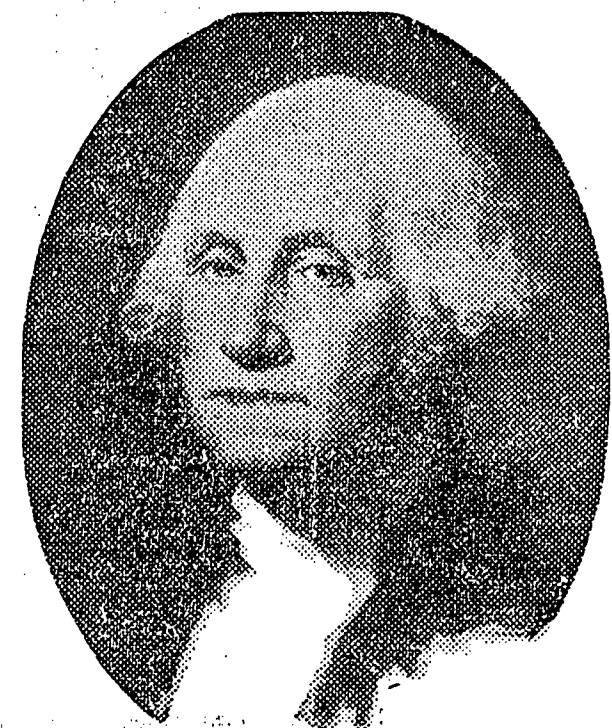

At the athletic board meeting final arrangements for the state basketball tournament were made and it was decided to add the medley relay race to the state track meet contests.

Mr. Schowengerdt who made the trip spent some time attending to business in connection with an agricultural bulletin which he is writing, and Miss Anthony spent her time in connection with a committee which has been working on recommendations for training of teachers for home economics and vocational home economics.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Next Tuesday evening the M. S. T. O. campus is to be honored by visit from a Kansas State College team of women debaters who are rounding out a weeks tour in which they are meeting Missouri U., Washington U., Marquette, Northwestern, U. of Iowa, Drake and Iowa State. The M. S. T. O. women's team which will oppose them will arrive home the day before from the seven state tour. The debate is to be held at 8 p. m. Tuesday evening and the entire student body, faculty and others are cordially invited to attend this battle of feminine wits.

GEORGE WASHINGTON

The Builder—The Man of Courage—The Man of Vision
Remember Valley Forge

Ragged, hungry, half-frozen, leaving a trail of blood along their snow marches, those men at Valley Forge fought through, and won. Do we, with our glorious inheritance, dare to complain. If we are worthy sons of our forefathers, if we possess a vestige of the spirit that prevailed at Valley Forge, we, too, shall always fight through and win, as true Americans.—(This issue of the Northwest Missourian is dedicated to the memory of George Washington (1732-1799).)

Miss Shepherd Talks on Modern Russian Education

Miss Grace M. Shepherd of the faculty of the Education Department of the College, gave an address Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, in the Social Hall. Despite the snow an interested group of students, faculty members and others from town gathered to hear her interesting lecture on "Modern Russian Education."

Miss Shepherd told of the new Russian educational system by describing the various units included, and impressed her listeners with the importance of the many changes developing in that great land, which she described as being much larger than the United States, Canada and Mexico combined.

District Cage Tournament Will Be Held Here in March

H. R. Dieterich, manager of the Northwest Missouri high school basketball tournament, recently sent out announcements of the sub-district and district basketball tournaments to all high schools in this district. The sub-district meets, according to the announcement, will be held March 4 and 5 at various central points throughout the district and the eight winners and eight runners-up will be qualified to the district tournament at Maryville, March 11 and 12.

The first and second place winners of the district meet will have their expenses paid to the state tournament by the college, and it is hoped that the sub-district associations will help bear the expense of sending the teams which they qualify to the district games.

Guess Who?

The "Guess Who" character last week was Eileen Hunterston. Who is the high and mighty Senior, who is a splendid fellow, and is perfectly aware of it? He is good sized, has dark hair and eyes, and dresses nicely. "He can play and he can sing. In fact he can do most anything." In addition he has wit, initiative and a certain amount of tact in getting along with the faculty. And he presumes that he gets plenty of sleep.

Washington's Words on Peace

Two things are in juxtaposition: The opening of the Disarmament Conference in Geneva and the tremendous celebrations of Washington's birthday. Born February 22, 1732, this year the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of that man deemed Father of His Country calls for many demonstrations. What has been said by Washington on desire for and love of peace is especially timely: His personal expression in one of his letters is, "My policy has been to cultivate peace with all men" and his national or world opinion was told in these words: "As the complexion of European politics seems now, my first wish is to see this plague to mankind (war) banished off the earth, and the sons and daughters of this world employed in more pleasing and innocent amusements than in preparing implements and exercising these for the destruction of mankind."

While in a circular letter to the States, 1783, Washington advised of pacific measures. The third of these is "the adoption of a proper peace establishment."

STROLLER

Is Mac Egdon going to announce for a political office? The Stroller doesn't know but he hears rumors that they are ready to draft him for something down in Sedalia.

The Stroller wishes the clouds of depression would rise long enough for somebody besides H. Fisher to smile.

The question now before the house is: Who does Helen Grace's Botany for her? Someone in a small voice was cheering for Saylor down at the gym last Friday night.

Some of the more or less dignified Freshmen were seen having a "big time" on the dance floor Friday night.

The question was one of prevailing modes of bank architecture. But Eddie Ditz says the best way to identify a bank in most towns at present is to look for an empty building.

Ask the girls who attended the Y party if Lucille Gifford likes Red Hot!

The Stroller liked Ted Shawn and his dancers but he just couldn't understand why they kept running over to look in the corners when there was nothing there to see, and why Ted doesn't challenge Jack Dempsey.

The Stroller wonders if everyone realizes that Genevieve Wilson is from a big city. Upon being shown the greenhouse she inquired if that was the flower factory! Genevieve is studying Botany we understand.

H. Garrett tells the Stroller that what Sherman said about war would also apply appropriately to these country roads.

GEORGE WASHINGTON

In this age of cynicism and iconoclastic attack on all the great of the past, it is fitting that the entire nation are united in their homage to the greatness of George Washington. This year marks the two hundredth anniversary of his birth. Washington's name has so often been mentioned with reverence and awe that he has grown almost legendary. Washington was loved in his own period because of his human qualities. He had his follies and little eccentricities as who hasn't but it was these very qualities that enabled him to handle men; that made him a great general, a great statesman, and a great commoner. It is well known that Washington was cheerful and humorous, but we would not have to be specifically informed of the fact to know it. No man can handle a dark situation such as was experienced at Valley Forge without a strong sense of humor and a large sympathy and understanding. In spite of his baronial estate Washington was in every sense of the word a man of the soil. Washington was an aristocratic democrat. He proved his true democracy more than anywhere else when he so promptly squelched the attempt to make him king. Washington was not particularly a brilliant mind but he was a genius at organizing and leading. He was

Plan Program to Honor Washington

Dr. H. A. Foster Is in Charge of Arrangements For Bi-Centennial Celebration.

Arrangements are underway at the College to carry out a program in accordance with the plans of the United States government for the bicentennial celebration of the birth of George Washington, according to announcement by Dr. H. A. Foster, chairman of the Social Science Department, who is also in charge of the arrangements for the celebration here at the College.

A committee consisting of Miss Martindale, Miss Anthony, Miss DeLuce, Miss Painter, Mr. Gardner, Mr. Phillips and Mr. Miller of the faculty and Russell Noblet of the Student Council, are working with Dr. Foster to help carry on celebrating features in honor of "The Father of Our Country."

Dr. Foster says that while such programs are appropriate at any time now, they are, especially appropriate on national or state holidays. Activities at the College will begin February 22 and end on Thanksgiving Day next November 24.

While the committee has not made all final arrangements yet it is contemplating a variety of things which will help to honor the memory of George Washington, such as dramatic plays for the various grades which will throw light on the life, character and service of this great American, pageants or operettas, symposia, and short addresses.

Dr. Foster also says that Washington music is available. He mentioned that the committee will probably bring some authoritatively produced film to the College, and arrange some special assembly programs.

President Lamkin in a short talk at assembly last week explained that according to the school laws there are only four legal holidays. These holidays are Christmas, Thanksgiving Day, Fourth of July and Washington's birth anniversary, February 22, and he announced that there would be no school next Monday, February 22.

Some of the students have explained to the Stroller that one of the greatest things about Washington is the vacation which they are to get on next Monday.

It was George Washington who said:

I shall begrudge no reasonable expense that will contribute to the improvement and neatness of my farms—for nothing pleases me better than to see them in good order, and everything trim, handsome, and thriving about them. Envious of none, I am determined to be pleased with all; and this being the order of my march, I will move gently down the stream of life, until I sleep with my fathers.

Go! Bearcats! Go! Beat Springfield! Conference Game! Friday Night!

cool and methodical, with almost puritanical concepts of virtue and honor. He was never known to speak in a completely hot headed manner except when he ordered General Charles Lee off the field of battle because of his cowardice.

Let us ever preserve for Washington his place among the immortals, by making of the work he started a great and crowning glory to his name, so that in the future it will be said that Washington loved America, and America loved Washington.

WILBUR HECKIN.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

Someone once said that Lincoln's face was the most beautiful he had ever seen. What was there about this face with its careworn lines, its large, irregular nose, its sharp bones and rough skin that would make anyone utter a statement like the one above? It was because there was character written in the lines of that countenance, virtues of a number and importance rarely seen in a human face. One would find it a most difficult task to find the likeness of any historical character that would depict as many admirable traits as can be seen in the face of Abraham Lincoln. Sympathy and sadness mingled with firmness, courage, and justice make his face a striking picture of benevolence. In all the history of the human race it would be hard to find a man who has thought more, loved more, said more, worked more, and done more for mankind. President Hoover never uttered truer words than when he placed his speech last Friday night with a statement to the effect that Washington was indeed the Father of his Country but that Lincoln was its greatest citizen.

WALLACE CULVER

Problems in Missouri County Government

By
PROF. WM. L. BRADSHAW
Department of Political Science
University of Missouri.

BUSINESS METHODS

There is no uniform or standardized system of bookkeeping in the county offices of Missouri. Each officer has devised his own scheme or followed that of his predecessor. Records are, therefore, kept differently from office to office and county to county. This makes it difficult, or if not impossible, to secure comparable data on the cost of any particular county activity.

The solution for this problem is a uniform system of bookkeeping for all county offices and institutions. This system should incorporate the essential features of cost accounting, now generally used in private business enterprises. Then the expenses directly incurred by each county activity would be charged to it, and so indicated in the annual financial statement. Cost accounting is now followed in Marion and in lesser extent in a few other counties, even though it is necessary to disregard certain statutory provisions.

The neighboring state of Iowa provided for a standardized system of bookkeeping and accounting in all counties in 1914. It was devised by her state auditor in cooperation with county officials. To make the system effective the auditor examines annually each office which receives or disburses public funds. Other states are now following Iowa's example. Why shouldn't Missouri?

Under the present statutory provisions centralized purchasing of supplies is not authorized. The county has little opportunity to economize, except in purchasing supplies, for most of the other expenses of county government are required by law. Unfortunately, this is generally impossible, for all elective officials have authority to purchase their own office supplies independently of the county court and even against its wishes. The court must pay for such supplies if the items purchased and prices charged are reasonable. Moreover, "what is reasonable" is a question for a jury to decide, according to a recent opinion of the attorney-general. Consequently, allowing a claim for supplies is largely a ministerial duty, for the court has little discretion in the matter. Nevertheless, despite the lack of legal authority, purchasing is more or less centralized in a few counties, the elective officials accepting it as an economical practice.

Officials in the latter counties claim that there are several advantages in having a single purchasing agent. He becomes more familiar with the different companies selling supplies than an individual officer dealing with them only occasionally. Larger orders encourage competition from more firms, thus enabling the county to secure standardized goods at more reasonable prices. A purchasing agent prevents an unscrupulous salesman from putting off expensive and unnecessary supplies on a newly-elected officer who is not yet familiar with his needs. It also prevents the petty graft that sometimes accompanies purchases by individual officers. In many counties, it is said that bills for disinfectants, for example, have been excessive, if not fraudulent.

Having been successful in a few counties, why shouldn't centralized purchasing be extended to all of them? Why shouldn't the county court be authorized by law to appoint a purchasing agent? In the average rural county this duty could be conferred upon an existing officer, such as the county clerk or a full-time presiding judge.

Inability to control purchases prevents the adoption of a county budget. A county court could not follow a budget, if it did prepare one. Lacking an effective budget system, county after county has departed from the "pay-as-you-go" or "cash-system" intended by the constitution, until the "protesting of warrants" has become the general rule. And now, since the depression has reduced taxes, many counties are on the verge of bankruptcy.

In conclusion, up-to-date methods of bookkeeping, accounting, auditing, budgeting, and purchasing are just as essential in public business as in private business. These devices, along with a reduction in the number of local governmental units and the consolidation of county offices are the best means of modernizing local government and reducing its cost.

Grasshopper Survey Is Being Conducted Throughout State

A careful survey, to determine the condition of the overwintering eggs of grasshoppers, is being made throughout the State according to Leonard Haseman, chairman of the department of entomology of the Missouri College of Agriculture. This survey is being made by the extension entomologist of the College in cooperation with county extension agents.

Due to the abundance of grasshoppers last fall and the mild winter, it is realized that the pest may do much damage again next summer. The U. S. Department of Agriculture is considering plans for extensive work on grasshopper control in the areas devastated last year, and this survey is being made by the College of Agriculture in order that it may cooperate more effectively with the work of the Federal Department.

Farmers, vocational agriculture instructors and their students, and others are urged to cooperate with the College in making this survey, especially in those counties where the hoppers were serious last year. The destructive species of grasshoppers in Missouri normally pass the winter in peanut-like egg packets placed from one to three inches below the surface of the ground. The abundance of the egg packets and the condition of the eggs in the packets should be noted and reported to the College.

Importance of Good Vision Is Emphasized at College

The advance of civilization in this country and throughout the world is being definitely retarded because of the lack of comprehension by leaders in industry and education regarding the vital subject of the vision, the students of the College were told by Dr. A. M. Skeffington of Chicago, director of the Graduate Foundation of Optometry, in an address at an assembly at 10 o'clock this morning.

Dr. Skeffington said that "poor vision" is at the root of the ills that have caused many children to fail in their school work.

"Few people know the difference between mere good sight and efficient vision, and therein lies the basis for many of the nation's ills.

"Nowadays we don't deal with the eye. We deal with the brain," he said. "The human eye is that portion of the brain which has come to the surface."

125 Attend 35th P. T. A. Founders' Day Supper Here

Approximately 125 parents and teachers attended the 35th annual Founders Day Anniversary supper of the P. T. A. last night at the First M. E. Church.

From 6 to 6:30 music was furnished by Brumbaugh's orchestra. Mrs. L. L. St. Clair discussed "Child Welfare Conferences." L. L. Livengood gave a talk on "George Washington" and Dr. J. L. Lawing reviewed plans of the Maryville schools for the year. The Founders Day Gift in the form of silver offering will be sent to the state treasurer and half is forwarded to the national office at Washington, D. C. to be used in extension work.

Eleven pupils of the 5th and 6th grades gave a pageant, "The Seven Cardinal Principles of Education." The introduction was given by Barbara Leet and the part of Education was taken by Junior Somerville.

The girls representing the principles of education were: Eleanor Hartness, Janice Gray, Mary Belle Lawing, Emma Isabel Brown, Betty Alice Hosmer, Estella Hartman and Zylpha Elisen Kessler.

The thirty-five candles on the anniversary cake were lighted by Marie Arnett. The concluding poem was given by Janice Gray.

Lamkin Will Go East For Meeting of Educators

President Uel W. Lamkin of the College will leave tomorrow night for Washington, D. C., where he will attend a meeting of the American Association of Teachers Colleges. He will be gone a week. During his absence, Dr. J. W. Hake, chairman of the faculty council, will be acting president. The College here is a member of the American Association of Teachers Colleges.

A meeting of the department of superintendents of the National Education Association will be held preceding the opening of the American Association meeting. Mr. Lamkin is a former N. E. A. president.

Fox Hunters in South Rarely See End of the Chase

Rabun Gap, Ga., Feb. 16.—(P)—The foxes that waxed fat and lazy during a dry opulent summer are growing lean and gaunt now.

It's fox hunting weather in the southern highlands and the coves and ridges ring nightly with sounds of the chase.

They don't hunt foxes daytime down in Dixie's mountains. No pink-coated, custom-boated hunters ride smartly to the hounds.

Fox hunting in the highland slashes is a sport more rugged and less picturesque than the breakneck, mounted chases of the flat countries.

Likely, instead of tailored coats and breeches, the highland fox hunter will wear rough clothing over red flannels and heavy shoes.

Refreshments ordinarily are sliced side meat to be broiled over a wood fire and corn pone, made of water, cornmeal and salt.

The hunters drift together at a central location bringing their dogs and arguing whether Walkers or July hounds are the best. They then proceed to a knob or ridge that affords a good place to listen to the fox "race" they are staging.

The hunters call is a race and it really is more than a hunt. The fox is rarely ever caught and the hunters never see the end of the chase. They get their kick out of listening to the dogs run.

Collector Is Under Arrest.

Pineville, Mo., Feb. 16.—(P)—James Tatum, McDonald county prosecutor, said last night that E. E. Mattheson, county collector, was under technical arrest after admitting a shortage in his accounts and that his resignation had been sent to Governor Caulfield. Tatum said the recent closing of the Bank of Pineville revealed the shortage, which may approximate $10,000.

Cold Insurance

He carries it with him, ready for just such times. That little box of Bayer Aspirin. If he catches cold, what of it? Bayer Aspirin will stop it. If his throat feels sore, he will end the soreness with one good gargle made from these tablets.

Dangerous complications can follow the neglect of "a common cold." Every case of tonsillitis began with "just a sore throat." It's a wise plan to take aspirin after any undue exposure to bad weather, or whenever there is any chance that you've caught cold. If it's genuine aspirin it can't possibly hurt you; and how it does banish the aches and pains caused by colds, neuralgia, neuritis, lumbago, and even rheumatism.

Bayer Aspirin will insure your comfort through the worst cold season. The more susceptible you are to colds, the more you need it. Does not depress the heart.

Consolidation of Schools Will Be Accelerated

Large Saving and Better Facilities Is Object of Program.

Jefferson City, Mo., Feb. 16.—(P)—Superintendent of schools Charles A. Lee said today his department will in "all probability" recommend to the county redistricting boards when they are elected September 15 that the 8800 separate school districts which include more than one thousand separate high school districts, be reorganized into approximately 500 school districts, on the basis of surveys which have been completed in more than 50 counties.

"Such a reorganization would mean a large saving to the taxpayers of the state and in addition would afford better educational facilities for the children," Lee said.

Would Increase Efficiency.
"A state-wide school organization planned in the days when the fastest means of communication was the horse and buggy is out of date today. We no longer measure distance by miles but by time. The program provides reorganization of high school districts as well as rural school districts. The object is to have districts large enough so there will be sufficient children to maintain an efficient elementary school and a four-year high school; enough people to provide efficient leadership; and, enough wealth to furnish sufficient funds to finance the school with a reasonable tax levy.

The advantages of the new plan of organization of the old were summarized as follows by Lee:

Better trained teachers, and insure better learning by the pupils.

Lower per pupil cost of education.

Better socialization of pupils through contact and cooperation with a larger and more widely separated group.

More hygienic housing conditions for all children.

Facilities for extra classroom activities, such as dramatics, music, clubs, athletics and administrative activities.

Graded school for all elementary children with not more than two grades under one teacher.

Provide, through transportation, a first class school program within easy access of every pupil.

More Economical.

Give the boys and girls greater assurance of success upon leaving school because of their attendance at a better school.

Insure a more economical school to the taxpayers, through greater efficiency and better value for the money spent.

"In the new redistricting program we are planning for the future as well as for the present," the superintendent said. "The program which is being proposed will in many cases require several years of development for its complete attainment."

Lee said the department made the surveys on the principle that the purpose was not to see how many districts could be formed in conformity with the new law, but rather "how few districts can be formed to meet effectively the educational needs of the counties."

Each proposed enlarged district under the new plans must have a minimum area of 50 square miles or a minimum assessed valuation of one and one-half million dollars.

Other standards for the new districts include:

An enumeration of from 500 to 600 children between the ages of 6 and 17.

Each four-year high school to have at least seven teachers with at least 165 pupils enrolled.

No elementary teachers to teach more than two grades. (Lee pointed out that it will be impossible in some sections to put this standard into effect at once, due to roads which are unsuitable for transportation of children.)

Transportation in some of the enlarged districts of eleven and twelve grade pupils to other schools for the sake of greater efficiency and economy.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Observation Car Hangs 2,000 Feet Under Dirigible

New York, Feb. 16.—(P)—A device new to American naval aeronautics which was constructed in secret at Akron, Ohio, has been delivered at Lakehurst, N. J., and some young man attached to the air station there is preparing for the thrill of his life.

The device is an observation car in which one member of the airship Akron's crew may be lowered some 2,000 feet to act as the ship's eye while it cruises on theoretical clouds of destruction through dense clouds.

The observer in the little observation car is towed along just below the fleecy ceiling and telephones instructions to the airship which would permit it to drop bombs with accuracy on positions invisible from the ship.

The observation car is so small that it would not be likely to attract the attention of scouting enemy planes searching for the airship hidden in the clouds. It was sighted the observer would telephone that fact and be quickly drawn up into the obscurity of the clouds.

St. Joseph, Mo., Feb. 16.—(P)—By special permission of the government, 4,000,000 pounds of stock feed is being dumped into the Missouri river this week. The feed was damaged by a fire in the ware house of a local grain company last week.

Lincoln Worked For Temperance, Mehus Shows in Address

"The character of Lincoln" was discussed by Dr. O. Myking Mehus of the College faculty at the Junior church services of the M. E. church on Sunday morning, Mr. Mehus dwelt on the honesty, kindness, humility, and sympathy of Lincoln. He quoted from Lincoln's speeches to show his stand on the temperance question.

In a temperance address that Lincoln gave in Springfield, Illinois, on Washington's Birthday, February 22, 1842 he showed that he considered the drink habit a great evil, for in comparing the overthrow of intemperance with the Revolution of 1776, Lincoln said: "In it (the Temperance Revolution) we shall find a stronger bondage broken, a viler slavery unmitigated, a greater tyrant deposed; in it more of want supplied, more disease healed, more sorrow assuaged."

On the day of his assassination he said to his confidential messenger, Major J. B. Merwin: "After reconstruction the next great question will be the overthrow and suppression of the legalized liquor traffic, and you know my head and my heart, my hand and my purse, will go into this contest for victory. In 1842, less than a quarter of a century ago, I predicted that the day would come when there would be neither a slave nor a drunkard in the land. I have lived to see one prediction fulfilled. I hope to live to see the other."

John Hay, one of Lincoln's private secretaries says of him: "Mr. Lincoln was a man of extremely temperate habits; he made no use of either whiskey or tobacco during all the years that I knew him."

Changes in Grid Rules Are Given Good Reception

But Enough Objections Are Raised to Make Debate Interesting.

New York, Feb. 16.—(P)—Generally speaking, the official reaction to the changes made in the playing code by the national football rules committee has been favorable but there have been dissenters enough to make debate interesting.

The new and liberalized substitutes rule and the move toward making equipment safer not only for the wearer but his opponents as well met with almost unanimous approval.

But protests of varying degrees of emphasis greeted the other four changes—the alterations in the kickoff and “dead ball” rules and the committee’s decision to forbid the use of the flying block and flying tackle, and the aggressive use of the hands on the defense.

“Handicaps Small Players.” Those who favored the changes took the position that the rules committee had made the game safer for the players without taking anything vital from it. Those opposed believed some spectacular features have been removed and that the new rules would handicap the smaller player severely.

Elmer Layden of Duquesne declared the rule which forbids a player on the defense to strike a rival on the head or face with his hands “will eliminate the use of small players,” and called it “simply a protection for the big boys.”

He was joined in that stand by three other former Notre Dame-trained coaches, Tommy Mills of Georgetown, Rip Miller of Navy, and Edward (Slip) Madigan of St. Mary’s of Oakland, and by Bill Ingram of California. Harvey Herman of Penn. thought the penalty for violation of this rule (disqualification of the player and loss of half the distance to the offending team’s goal line) was so severe that officials would be chary of calling it.

Objects to “Dead Ball” Rule. Layden also opposed the change in the kickoff rule which permits the kick-off to be made with punt or drop-kick as well as place-kick, declaring it will have a “tendency to make teams punt the ball short and high to retain possession of it, exposing the receiver to severe injuries.”

Glenn S. (Pop) Warner of Stanford favored all of the regulations except that calling for an automatic “dead” ball when any part of the ball carrier’s body, except his hands or feet, touches the ground. He pointed out that a ball carrier could outdistance all opposition in a dash to the goal line and still lose a touchdown should he happen to slip and fall.

Bernie Bierman who branded the rule changes “mostly a bunch of bunk,” thought the “dead” ball rule was a good one. “It’s one place,” he said, “where they’ve got at the cause of accidents.”

Jayhawkers Defeat Nebraska Quintet 51 to 19 Last Night.

Lawrence, Kan., Feb. 16.—(P)—The University of Kansas Jayhawkers remained in the running for the 1932 Big Six basketball title here last night by rolling up a 51 to 19 score against Nebraska.

The victory, the most decisive for a conference team this season, enabled the champion Jayhawkers to take undisputed possession of second place. The game also brought together the old master and his pupil. A decade ago Coach Charley Black of the Huskers, was one of Coach F. C. (Phog) Allen’s star players.

St. Joseph Junior College Five Beats Conception College

Conception, Mo., Feb. 16.—(P)—Trailing the first eight minutes of play, the Junior College Griffons of St. Joseph hit their stride against Conception College here last night to defeat the local quintet by the score of 38 to 26.

So fast did the Griffons travel after they went into the lead on Whitaker’s under-the-basket shot, which sent the visitors out in front, that the count at the end of the first half was 18 to 9.

The Griffons’ aggression continued to hold a decided advantage throughout the entire second half of the melee despite the fact all the nine cagers who made the trip from St. Joseph were inserted in the lineup.

Smith and Whitaker, the St. Joseph team’s co-captains, led the offensive assault. Smith contributed seven of the Griffons’ points with his eight field goals and a free throw. Whitaker, in addition to netting four 2-pointers and a pair of thrusts from the charity line, was outstanding in all-around play.

Herlotz and Hecker played excellent ball for Conception. The former led the local scorers with five field goals and a free throw.

Ding Bats Easily Defeat St. Joseph Haystackers

The Ding Bats of Maryville averaged almost 185 pins per man per game last night to defeat the Haystackers of St. Joseph by 300 pins in a match game at the Garton and Thompson alleys. The Ding Bats rolled 2767 pins to 2367 pins. Roy Fanning was high ten with 236 and high thirty with 592. Shofner of the Haystackers rolled high ten for his team with 181 while Albus was high thirty with 595. In the second game the Ding Bats lacked one pin of averaging 210 each. Following the match the bowlers were given a chicken dinner by the Douglas Candy company, sponsors of the Haystackers, and Dave Seckington, local salesman.

Bearcats Defeat Tarkio College Quintet 37 to 22

McCracken Scores 20 Points as Ibaam Wins 16th Straight Game.

Led by Captain Jack McCracken the Maryville Bearcats scored their sixteenth consecutive basketball victory last night at Tarkio by taking the measure of the Tarks, 37 to 22. McCracken scored nine field goals and two free throws for a total of twenty points.

The Bearcats got off to a lead at the outset of the game, and although the Tarks tied it up at 2-all, the Maryville team went back into a lead that was stretched to 17 to 9 at the end of the half. The Tarks scored eight field goals against the Bearcats which is more than many teams have been able to do. Wehrli, captain and guard on the Tarkio team, accounted for five of these Tarkio two-pointers, most of them being scored on “scoop” shots from about the middle of the court.

Fischer-Opens Scoring. H. Fischer, Bearcat forward, opened the scoring with a field goal from about the free throw line. Wehrli tied it up with one from about the same place on the opposite end of the court. McCracken then got a follow-in that put the Bearcats into a lead that Tarkio was never able to overcome.

The Bearcat score kept mounting with McCracken, Stalcup, Fischer, Dowell and Merrick scoring. With the count 14 to 2, “Red” Watts, Tarkio forward, made a free throw from Stalcup’s foul, but McCracken retaliated with a like counter on Wehrli’s foul. Wehrli got a one-handed shot that made the score 15 to 5, and then Charles and Watts scored free throws. McCracken tipped the ball into the basket to make the score 17 to 7, but just before the gun sounded the half Wehrli dribbled to the center circle, scooped the ball almost from the floor and fired it through the hoop for two points.

A Free Scoring Game. McCracken started the scoring in the last half with a tip in, and then went under the basket fast for two more points. Merrick was fouled as he shot, but the ball went through for two points. He missed his free throw but McCracken tipped it in. McCracken pivoted from his post position, around McMullen and added a brace of points. Fischer got a set up and then counted a free throw. McCracken added a tip-in shot for his eighth field goal of the game.

Watts got two shots on Stalcup’s foul and made both of them good. Merrick was fouled by Charles and made the shot. Eddy, a guard, re-entered the game and snagged a couple of long field goals. Hodgkinson went in for Maryville and responded with a two-pointer. McCracken pivoted under the basket for the last of the Bearcat scores. McCracken fouled McMullen at center and the tall Tark made the shot count. Charles heaved a long one and Wehrli got two. Tarkio couldn’t seem to miss in these last two minutes.

Kirkville Noses Out Cape Girardeau 25 to 23

Cape Girardeau, Mo., Feb. 16.—(P)—The Cape Girardeau Teachers today found themselves occupying third place in the M. I. A. A. basketball race as a result of a 25-to-23 defeat administered to them last night by the Kirkville Teachers in a game here.

The shift gave the Springfield Teachers undisputed possession of second place, with Maryville Teachers holding first place.

With Kirkville leading 14 to 12 at the half, Cape Girardeau forged ahead early in the second half to lead 16 to 15 only to be outdistanced later by the visitors.

Curtwright, Kirkville forward, boosted his team’s score with five field goals and four free throws. Devore, forward, and Hubbard, center, led Cape Girardeau’s scoring, with seven points each.

Homburger Wins Olympic Four-Man Bob Sled Races

Lake Placid, N. Y., Feb. 16.—(P)—Henry “Hank” Homburger, young civil engineer who holds the world speed record for four-man bob sleds on a mile and half slide, roared down the Olympic chute today close to record time to defend successfully his North American and Amateur Athletic Union championship.

Homburger’s times were 1:55.90 and 1:53.34, fastest made in competition on the speedy course this year, the latter little more than a second back of his world record of 1:52.

A careening breath-taking burst down the steep mountain side in the final heat by Lieut. Alexander Papania, pilot of the Rumanian entry, in one minute, 53.01 seconds, fastest of the day, gave him second place with a total of 3 minutes, 51.31 seconds, a fraction, but less than the total time of Hubert Stevens, giant Olympic two-man bob champion, who finished third.

Hubert tore down the fastest track offered for competition in the past week in 1:57.39 and 1:54.30 for a total of 3:51.69.

THE GASOLINE RACKETEER IS ROBBING YOU As Well As Your State

An enormous new racket has grown up in the past few years—the bootlegging of gasoline to escape payment of the state tax. Now an alarming amount of gasoline is being sold without payment of lawful tax.

Most motorists who buy bootleg gasoline buy it unknowingly. But know it or not, they are being robbed by the gasoline racketeers every time they buy from them!

The gasoline tax you pay belongs to you, and you should get it back from your state in the form of good roads. When you buy bootleg gasoline, you pay all or a part of the tax, too—but the racketeer pockets the money. You never get it back! And remember—if your state received all the money paid as a gasoline tax, it could well afford to lower the gasoline tax!

Knowing this, you naturally don’t want to buy any bootleg gasoline. To be sure the money you pay as tax goes to your state, buy only gasolines sold under dependable, familiar brand names, backed up by reliable companies who make sure the state gets the tax. By sticking to familiar, reliable brands, you’ll help banish racketeers.

CONOCO Gasoline is a branded gasoline you can buy with safety at the sign of the CONOCO Red Triangle.

THE ANTI-HOARDING CAMPAIGN.

Everyone is, of course, anxious to see the end of the depression, and any move to remedy it is naturally given a hopeful reception. Criticism of any of these moves, in fact, is looked on as unpatriotic, regardless of how empty they are shown to be on closer inspection.

The Administration has embarked on a campaign against "hoarding," and although no exact statement of the method proposed to bring about this admittedly desirable end has been made, the general plan of operation seems to contemplate the use of "big name" committees, "pep," and public exhortation.

It is to be hoped that the anti-hoarding campaign succeeds, but one would have to be excessively optimistic to believe that a great deal can be accomplished along the lines proposed. People hoard their money, as any boy of eight knows, because they are afraid of banks. In communities in which the banks are known to be safe there is little trouble with hoarding.

It would appear, therefore, that the Administration has gone about the anti-hoarding campaign backwards. It seeks to fight the effect rather than to remove the cause. Some good may be accomplished, but much more would be done by a careful consideration of the causes of hoarding, and a carefully worked out program to remove these causes.

THE RIGHT TO PETITION

The W. C. T. U., has submitted to the protestant churches of Maryville a resolution which opposes resubmission of the Eighteenth Amendment to be ratified by state conventions or legislatures. These resolutions, if adopted, will be sent to the U. S. Senate.

In the first place, the manner of adoption do not indicate the true opinion of the people voting, and in the second place the resolution violates one of the cardinal principles of the Constitution.

The principle of the Constitution to which we refer is that which grants to the people of this nation the right to assemble and to petition the government for a redress of grievances. This principle is found in Article I of the Amendments, and again in the Constitution, found in Article XV of the Amendments, under section I, the provision that "the right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any State."

It has been definitely demonstrated in the last decade that the Eighteenth Amendment, better known as the Liquor Prohibition Amendment, is a source of dispute among the peoples of this nation, and there should not be denied the right to our peoples to petition the government for a vote on the question.

Furthermore, the contention is made that the presenting of such a resolution before an assembled body in a church would not meet with any opposition, and persons who do hold the same opinion as expressed in the resolution would not vote against it.

This article does not in any manner contend that the Eighteenth Amendment should be repealed, but it does express the belief that our citizens should not be denied the right to petition the government for a vote on any matter, prohibition or otherwise.

The resolution of the W. C. T. U., definitely opposes resubmission, which the Constitution guarantees. The cardinal principle of a democracy is that the government runs with the

JUSTICE HOLMES' SUCCESSOR

President Hoover's choice of Benjamin Nathan Cardozo to succeed Oliver Wendell Holmes as associate justice of the Supreme Court is a happy one, and one which was wisely made without political considerations.

Justice Cardozo will undoubtedly prove a worthy successor to the great liberal who retired last month at 91. Mr. Cardozo is a deep student of law, a learned and brilliant jurist. He is, moreover, a liberal whose tendency is to put human rights above corporation rights.

Of late years the tremendous importance of decisions of the Supreme Court as they bear on the rights of the entire population have become increasingly plain. The Court is, in fact, virtually a super-legislative body which can set aside the laws passed by the people's representatives if it so desires. For that reason, justices in sympathy with the needs and aspirations of the people are essential to the preservation of orderly government.

A great deal of speculation followed the resignation of Justice Holmes. Some observers believed that Mr. Hoover would be obliged to look to the South or West for a successor to the "grand old man" of the court, arguing it is essential to have each section of the country represented on the court. Others held that the only consideration should be the temper and attainments of the appointee, regardless of party lines or geographical considerations.

That Mr. Hoover held to the first of these theories a year or so ago when he attempted to name Judge J. J. Parker to the Supreme Court is immaterial now. Mr. Hoover has since named three men to the court—Justice Roberts, Chief Justice Hughes, and now Justice Cardozo. These appointments have been good ones. They have kept the Supreme Court where it ought to be—far out of the realm of partisan politics.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS

GARNER'S POSSIBILITIES

Springfield News.
For John N. Garner, as a good choice for the democratic presidential nomination, there is this to be said:

Garner did not have to suggest himself. He was suggested.

Once suggested, he has not had to cultivate water and land the suggestion, either. It has grown of itself—without extraordinary vigor. It may bear fruit.

Technically, the claims advanced by at least eight or ten democratic presidential eligibles, or by their friends, in their behalf, are entitled to consideration ahead of the qualifications of this Texas.

In fact, the potentialities of the others have been examined ahead of his. That's the trouble. Flaws have been detected in all of them.

Cecily, 22, loves BARRY MCKEEL, an engineer, but when he proposes she refuses to name their wedding date for the same reason.

Mary-Frances, 15, and still in school believes herself in love with EARL DE ARMOUNT, vaudeville actor whom she has met without the knowledge of her sisters. He urges her to leave home and become his stage partner.

Ann and Phil quarrel when she hears LETTY KING, who works in Phil's office building, address him with endearments. Ann tries to forget Phil by going about with KENNETH SMITH, rich and attentive.

Mary-Frances agrees to go away with De Armount. The same day Cecily quarrels with her grandfather and drives away with Barry in his car.

Kenneth Smith asks Ann to marry him and she refuses.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER 42

Mary-Frances sighed and found a pine nut, deep in a lumpy corner of her coat pocket, and ate it.

A man with a piece of red cloth in his hand stepped out into the road and stopped them. Mary-Frances, for a minute, was frightened; but it was only that road work was going on and that oneway traffic rules were being enforced. They had to wait there for 15 minutes, and then the man gave them the piece of red cloth to deliver to another man, who took it at the far end

Governor Roosevelt seems semi-satisfactory to so many different and conflicting elements as to make wise politicians wonder whether he will prove satisfactory enough to any of the number. Al Smith already has demonstrated that he can be beaten. Perhaps unjustly, Owen D. Young is sure to be accused of representing big money. Newton D. Baker is a corporation lawyer, who once was a radical; he is consequently regarded askance alike by progressives and conservatives.

It is painful to have to admit it, because he is personally so likeable, but Governor Ritchie of Maryland has several serious handicaps.

From things he not only has said, but rubbed in, it is hard not to class him as pro-power. He is wet, and while Governor Roosevelt has expressed himself equally so, most drys appear to "understand" the New Yorker—but not Ritchie. Popular sentiment today plainly is anti-internationalistic, and the Marylander professes Wilsonian principles.

And so on.

Senator Joseph T. Robinson is too dry. Ex-Senator James A. Reed is too old. Governor George White of Ohio is only a favorite son. James M. Cox is a back number.

Without necessarily having abandoned all thought of any of these candidates democratic leaders pause, as their eyes rest on Speaker Garner. Then their mobile countenances reflect the processes of lively cerebral activity.

There is something exceedingly presidentially obvious about the Texan.

Of course the speaker of the house of representatives, occupying a position which many folk hold to be second only to the presidency in importance, always is mentioned in connection with the next presidential nomination by whichever party he is affiliated with.

John N. Garner was so mentioned, as soon as it became evident that he was about to attain to the speakership, even before he actually had been elected to it.

At first, to be sure, it was a tentative sort of mention.

Indeed, Garner's best friends were doubtful how well he would make good in the speaker's chair. As minority leader, they had recognized him as a fine disorganizer of the opposition's forces. They realized that it remained to be seen how successful he would be in the role of majority organizer—a mighty narrow majority, within which existed threats of friction of a highly dangerous character.

With the revelation that he possessed the gifts for the direction of large scale operations, as well as those of a dash-guerrilla leader, naturally the stock of the Lone Star statesman advanced decidedly.

of the bumpy stretch.

"It is getting late," said Mary-Frances, "and Mendel Springs is so far."

"Want I should let her out to sixty, hon? She can do it, and better," Earl said.

"I guess so," said Mary-Frances. Soon they came to a town named Cutter and sped through it like a streak; but just beyond Cutter there was a long feldur, and the road was very bad, and they barely moved along for miles and miles, until finally, they reached a little place foolishly named India. Here Earl bought gasoline, and reassured Mary-Frances as to how straight he was going to treat her, and reminded her again she was going to thank him to her dying day.

Mary-Frances answered. She said, "Yes," twice, and "I know," a time or two; but her gray eyes were wistful, and her sighs were deep drawn.

On the highway once more, Earl said, "Listen, sweetie baby, I'm going to idle along a ways, and you and I are going to have a little talk—see? You act like you was kinda worried or something—see? I want to tell you I'm crazy about you—see? And you are about me, and all. Just the same, I'm going to treat you like a pal and a buddy—see? And if I don't, I hope I get mine. Here's another thing. A loving, trusting little sweetie like you is just about going to be the making of me—see? Just about the making of me, and I'm—"

"Earl," Mary-Frances interrupted, "I'd rather wait go faster. I like to go fast."

"Sure, I know. But say, listen, baby, you ain't sore at me nor anything, are you?"

"No. Only—I want to get to Mendel Springs. I—just want to get there."

"Little sweetie cutie baby," he said, with real tenderness, "I wish to gosh we could get married right now, open and above board. But I'm telling you, you won't be any more anxious than I am, see—"

"Let's go fast," said Mary-Frances. "Fast as we can."

"She'll do 70 or better. Wanta risk it?"

Mary-Frances wished to risk it; so then they went riding along together at 70 miles an hour.

Undoubtedly it was more or less dangerous to speed on the highway and in a car with uncertain tires. But fortune favored them. In the end they arrived safely at Mendel Springs and got out of the car near the stone-walled well.

While Mary-Frances stood off a bit, and held her handkerchief to her nose, Earl drank three cups of the horrible smelling water. Then he rejoined her, and they went together, up the steps and across the wide veranda and into the hotel.

Cecily and Ann, arm in arm, were walking up the front steps to the porch. Barry, in his car, was circling the turn-around with the old broken fountain in its center.

Cecily repeated, "Ann, I am sorry," and added, "But why in the world were you frightened, angel? It is only half-past six right now."

"Cecily—I can hardly breathe yet. I've pictured you at the bottom of every ravine in Oregon. I've never had an hour—I can hardly breathe. Of course, if you'd been dressed—but in your bathrobe! I telephoned the hospitals. They acted as if they'd never heard of such a thing as an accident. Goodness, Cecily, where have you been?"

"Up in the hills. Let's stop here a minute on the porch. Ann, I—Did you have a bad time with Grand after I left this morning?"

"Bad? Terrible. He declares that you pushed him over—struck him down, he says. In the hall—"

"Ann! I did not! Oh, my word! I suppose I am in for it. Well—it can last only so long. Wait a minute, Ann. Angel, I—I hope you are going to forgive me. Barry is coming back in about half an hour and I'm going with him—and we're going to be married. Wait—let me tell you. He got the license in Albany yesterday—just think. We've been talking and talking and deciding all day. We either have to marry or give each other up entirely. There's his book—his books, and his future. Everything. I'll keep on working, of course, and pay what I make; every cent of it, in here at home. If Barry's book is a success, and it is bound to be, we can help a lot. We're coming, both of us, on Sundays to clean house. Barry says he's a silk cleaner of houses, and—You said you wanted me to marry, Ann. You remember, the other day, you said—

"Sister's sweetheart! Of course I said so, and I do. Dear, I'm glad. Don't think anything else—don't talk so—so humbly. I'm glad. You'll be so happy. So happy."

"Yes, but—Ann, how shall I break it to Grand and Rosalie? Barry said just to say—"

"They aren't here, thank goodness! They've gone out with the Carmichaels for dinner and the evening. They are cheering Grand up. I know, so they'll probably play euchre and be away late. You can just go. I would, if I were you. Just go. I'll tell them when they come home. They'll fuss, but I don't care. Cissy, after the past hour it would take more than a scree to shake me. Now that you are alive and happy, nothing else seems to matter. Really it doesn't. Come, let's go in. No one's at home. Not even Mary-Frances."

In the lower hall Cecily said, "Angel angel, angel Ann!"

In the upper hall she said, "And I was afraid to tell you! Then you don't think that I'm frightfully selfish and—all that? You know, you understand that I'm not really letting you down!"

"Cissy, dear! Of course I don't—I mean, I do—I mean whatever I do mean. I'm just glad—that's all. Glad for your pluck and everything. What are you going to wear? Oh, Cissy, honey—you must take those lovely undies Penn Johns sent me last Christmas. Let me see—my gloves are newer than yours. You take them. And my best stockings—I haven't worn them. Now, let me see—you'll wear your new tan this evening, won't you? I would, if I were you. My beads are sweet with it. I'm so glad you washed your hair yesterday. What do you want to take, honey? I'll be putting the things out on the bed while you're in the bathroom."

"I suppose I'll have to take that awful old suitcase, as well as my overnight bag. We're going to Albany tomorrow. Later in the week we'll come down, and I'll pack a trunk; but I won't want to have to rush about it. Yes—the old suitcase and my overnight bag. I can leave the suitcase in the car tonight. If you'll get them out, dear, I'll decide what to put in them later. I suppose there isn't any hot water?"

"I'll light the gas heater. No, that takes too long. I'll run down and put on the kettle, and bring it up—"

"You will not. I'll do it myself."

They started for the door and arrived there at the same time, and there was a small tussle. Cecily said, "You get the bags, angel, and I'll put on the kettle. I won't have you running up and down stairs, waiting on me. The suitcase is in the east room closet, I think. My bag is in my closet."

"Cissy! I've had an awful thought. It isn't. Mary-Frances went to Erminintrude to spend the night, and I'm sure she has taken your bag. She always does."

"But I must have it. I can't, I positively can't take that old wooden brush and black comb of mine—nor any of my toilet things—they're disgraceful."

"Don't worry. I'll telephone to her right away to bring it home. You'd better wait to tell her goodbye—"

"Of course. I'll call her while I'm downstairs. You get the suitcase, dear. But don't fill it with your things. I'm not going to take all your things."

Ann found the suitcase and sighed because of its scratches and dents and rough spots. She opened the bureau drawers in the east room and tossed through their scented contents. The bureau in the east room had served as her hope chest. So many of the things she had thought pretty were odd and old-fashioned now. Imagine anyone's wearing a step-in the size of this thing. It was large enough for Rosalie. Here was that sweet changeable taffeta breakfast coat that Nella had given her. Cissy must take it. She wouldn't? Well, it could be tucked in when Cissy wasn't watching. A little pile of extra handkerchiefs. These fancy garters—

Cecily, kettle in hand, came to the door and said, "The line is busy. I've tried and tried. Have you looked in my closet? Perhaps she didn't take it," and rushed away.

It was not in the closet. Ann went downstairs to the telephone and listened to the small quick thuds that informed her Ermintrude was talking to a friend. She waited for a few minutes, and dialed the number again, and then again, but the thuds continued; so she went to the foot of the stairs and called to Cecily:

"I'll run over to the Hills and get her. It's only a few blocks, and it will be easier than fussing at this phone, and quicker. I'll hurry."

Cecily answered, "Well—if you don't mind. Ermintrude's probably on the line. She may talk all night."

20 Looking Back 20

Dan Holmes, until lately associated with his father, G. B. Holmes, in the grocery business in Maryville, under the firm name of the Holmes Grocery company, returned Saturday evening from Chicago, where he had been for a week at the wholesale house of Sprague-Warner. He begins work this week for that house in Missouri, and is one of five traveling salesmen for that house in Missouri. His territory will be Central and Northern Missouri, taking in St. Louis, St. Joseph, Jefferson City, Fulton,

By Williams

LaGrange, Canton and other good business towns. Mr. Holmes has a fine position and one for which he should be well fitted.

The farmers around Burlington Junction have lost about fifteen head of horses the past two weeks by being poisoned, it is thought, by eating mouldy corn. John R. Graves, a farmer living near the Junction, lost eight head.

The course this week at Maryville is the biggest and best one in the state, according to Prof. Trowbridge and Prof. Hutchinson of Missouri state university. The course of lectures is more complete and covers a wider range of subjects than any other place in the state, and is being better attended. They were much surprised at the attendance at Tuesday's session, on account of a big snow storm, there being 150 present. Great interest is being taken by those enrolled.

Saturday was a great day in Pickering and the largest crowd that has been in that town for some time was there. Nearly every one in Union township, some from Polk and others from Hopkins were there, and it is said that all of the fun you ever saw they had it, and they didn't seem to care for mud or anything.

A monthly sale was held that day by Col. J. R. Branger, and in addition to this there were a number of athletic events, such as races, guessing contests, etc. The sale on the street, amounted to $644.60. Mr. Somerville, the principal of the Pickering high school acted as clerk of the sale. And they say it was also dry there. There were only 43 votes for the wets, and the dries there are ashamed of them.

Flash of Life

By the Associated Press

Boston—Old Peter O'Byrne—he's 74—dove into the cold harbor, swam 50 feet to young Irma Yeaton, and rescued her. That made him a hero to everyone but Mrs. O'Byrne. "The very idea," she said when she heard about it. "He's too old for such things. He should be more careful. He's apt to catch his death o' cold."

Berlin—This beer strike business is spreading. Leaders protesting the high beer tax, have called for beer strikes in the southern district of Bavaria, and Berlin saloonkeepers are thinking about it.

Philadelphia—Traffic policemen had better investigate their conscience. One of their jobs is to tow away illegally parked automobiles. The owners get them back for $8. They did that to Rev. Lindwood T. Geiger's car. But he called it stealing and a violation of the seventh commandment.

GOOD HOPE

(By Mrs. John Morehouse)

Mr. and Mrs. Wren Peve and Dr. and Mrs. Bridgeman from Hopkins were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Marlin Harris last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Baldwin and son, Theodore, Jr., from Essex, Ia., and Mr. and Mrs. Champ Rice from Pickering vicinity were week-end guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Baldwin and family. Mrs. Baldwin took advantage of a lot of good help by butchering.

The school folks who go to Hopkins high school from this neighborhood have certainly had hard going this week because of the roads thawing out.

Miss Mildred Dowling who teaches the Mt. Vernon school east of Hopkins, was on the sick list the first few days of this week and her sister, Virginia Rose is home sick as we write.

Mrs. Roy Ulmer spent two weeks visiting homefolks, Mr. and Mrs. Seals in Maryville, returning latter part of last week.

Mrs. Maud Ramsey spent last Wednesday with her homefolks, Mr. and Mrs. Nick Thull, near Pickering.

The many friends of Miss Frances Miller, who used to teach school at Highland, are very sorry to hear of her illness and hope for her speedy recovery.

We are told that Mrs. John Ringold is not very well.

We hear that George Ulmer, Jr., expects to move back to the farm. The old farm that was his home until he was married, his father selling the place before he died.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Young, who have worked for Mr. Ulmer for several years are moving onto one of Vern Fakes farms, west of Pickering, so we are told. Francis decided to go into the farming act for himself.

Mrs. Elmer Hutcherson from Hopkins, spent last Friday with her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Alvarado Kysar, on the farm.

Mrs. Fred Bergemann, sister of Mrs. Henry Brown, who has been taking treatment in Des Moines, Ia., for several months, came with her husband, Mr. Bergemann to Mr. Brown's last Saturday. Mrs. Bergemann was not able to continue her trip to her home in Terra Haute, Ind., and will remain with her sister until she gets stronger.

Mrs. Ed Sholey is spending a few days with her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Sholey, helping to care for little Miss Rowena Marie, who is just two weeks old.

Frank Rosecrans and family are going to move on the farm that is being vacated by Eliza Coulter. Mr. Rosecrans has been living for several years between Siam and New Market, Ia.

It's nothing unusual to see the ladies horse-back riding these days. Last Sunday Mrs. Loy Blanchard, Bernice, Lucile and Mary Lou Blanchard all visited Mrs. Blanchard's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Hoy, all going horse-back and Thursday at the club that met with Mrs. Taylor, there were several "horse-backers" and the others were driving teams—cars couldn't go. The mail carrier, Denver Florea, drove a team on the route.

Miss Shoop, the Highland Teacher, has begun to plan for another program at the school house Friday night, Feb. 26.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Jeffers were last Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Holker, going after Martha Belle who had spent the week-end with the Holker girls, but when they were ready to go home they couldn't, but had to stay all night until the roads were frozen hard enough to travel on.

GRAHAM

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Black and family spent Sunday with relatives in St. Joseph.

Lawrence Talbott and H. S. Cook of Matland left Monday for a business trip to Texas.

Mrs. Dale Lyle went to Hiawatha Sunday, where she will visit relatives for a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Oren Davis and baby drove to Kansas City Sunday and brought back their mother, Mrs. India Davis, who had been visiting her sister, Mrs. L. J. Stevens.

Mrs. Harold Morris and children of Barnard visited Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Morris Monday.

Long and Royston are having the old blacksmith shop, south of the lumber yard, torn down this week.

Mrs. John Conaway gave a pinocle party Tuesday night in honor of her husband's birthday. Guests were Dr. and Mrs. James Loffer, Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Judy, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Royston and family, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Zapf, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Logan and son, Miss Louetta Morris and Miss Margaret Broyles. Refreshments of Bavarian cream and cake were served.

Charles Ross returned Thursday from a week's stay in St. Joseph.

Mrs. Della Miller, and family of Matland spent Friday with Mr. and Mrs. John Owens.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Geyer entertained at dinner Sunday: Mr. McGinness, Miss Broyles and Miss Pettigrew.

Mrs. Mabel McGinness went to Pickering last week to visit her daughter.

The Ladies Aid of the Methodist church met Thursday at the home of Mrs. W. N. Sipes and held their monthly social meeting. The following program was given:

Song—Count Your Blessings.

Prayer—Mrs. Ida Adkins.

Song—Sweet Hour of Prayer.

Scripture reading—John 14—Mrs.

Della Meinhardt.
Origin of Saint Valentine—Mrs. Wm. Sipes.

Valentine Poem—Mrs. Effie Mowry. Valentine Story—Mrs. D. Meinhardt. Games and contests, led by Mrs. Earl Markham and Wilmo Schmidt.

Mrs. Eva Eckles and Mrs. Meinhardt won high score. Mrs. Ida Holliday and Mrs. Carrie Schmidt tied for honors on the best home made Valentine.

Sixteen members were present and Mrs. Glola Blosser and baby were guests. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Eva Eckles on March 10, and will be a Saint Patrick social with Mrs. Wm. Sipes, Mrs. Harry Kennedy and Mrs. Oscar Mowry as program leaders.
